James Q. Wilson

Topic: Broken Windows Crime Theory

James Q. Wilson is the Ronald Reagan Professor of Public Policy at Pepperdine University. He is the foremost criminologist, economist and political analyst of our day, and we are thrilled to have him come speak at our next meeting at Duke's Restaurant on May 25. Dr. Wilson has enjoyed a long distinguished career in the public policy arena. From 1961 to 1987, he taught political science at Harvard University, where he was the Shattuck Professor of Government. He was the James Collins Professor of Management and Public Policy at UCLA from 1985 until 1997. He is the author or co-author of fourteen books, the most recent of which are: The Marriage Problem: How Our Culture Has Weakened Families (Harper Collins, 2002), Moral Judgment (Basic Books), and The Moral Sense (Free Press). His others include American Government, Bureaucracy, Thinking About Crime, Varieties of Police Behavior, Political Organizations, and Crime and Human Nature. In addition he has edited or contributed to books on urban problems, government regulation of business, and the prevention of delinquency among children. Many of his writings on morality and human character have been collected in On Character: Essays by James Q. Wilson. His textbook on American government is more widely used on University campuses than any other government textbook.

Dr. Wilson has served on a number of national commissions concerned with public policy. He was chairman of the White House Task Force on Crime in 1966, Chairman of the National Advisory Commission on Drug Abuse Prevention in 1972-1973, a member of the Attorney General's Task Force on Violent Crime in 1981, a member of the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board from 1985 to 1991, and a member of the board of directors of the Police Foundation from 1971-1993. He is currently chairman of the Board of Academic Advisors of the American Electric System, State Farm Mutual Insurance Company, and Protection One. He is also a trustee of the RAND Corporation.

Dr. Wilson graduated from both the University of Redlands and the University of Chicago, in addition to receiving honorary degrees from six universities (most recently, Harvard University). Dr. Wilson recently received the Presidential Medal of Freedom in a ceremony at the White House for his important work on crime and morality. Please come hear his insightful message about how we can all help to eradicate crime in the United States.

MESSAGE

PRESIDENT from the

Dear Members,

With all of the issues we are facing on the national scene; immigration, border control, terrorism, nuclear weapons, it is easy to think that one person cannot make a difference. Fortunately, the MRWF is 114 members strong and we are here to give each other the courage to stand up and fight for what we believe in and what is right for our country. Our meetings must provide for what is needed for each one of us individually as well as for the group as a whole. That's the purpose of the Federated on a local level.

We are fortunate to have a board that enlightens us each month with tremendous speakers, information, education and most of all, a sense that we are not alone in this fight. Please be sure and mark your calendars and make a special effort to attend our meetings and to bring along a guest that will hopefully join the cause. We need your support now more than ever, especially with our fundraiser coming up at Duke's Restaurant on June 22nd.

Best regards,
Sandra J. McFadden

Internal Security, The Illegal alien lobby Where the money comes from for the protests

By: Joseph Farah, World Net Daily; March 04, 2006

There are dozens and dozens of organizations involved in illegal alien mobilizations in major cities – but most of them have at least some affiliation with four groups at the vanguard of the protests.

They include: the League of United Latin American Citizens, or LULAC, the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, of MALDEF, the Movimiento Estudiantil Chicano de Aztlan, or MEChA, and the National Council of La Raza, AKA La Raza.

While these groups share a radical agenda of “victimization” and seeking special privileges based on past exploitation of their constituencies, they actually share much more.

They share funding sources – some surprising funding sources, large funding sources.

Among the largest pools of resources open to these groups are the Ford and Rockefeller Foundations.

In fact, it would not be inaccurate to say that the Ford Foundation actually created MALDEF and La Raza.

While LULAC has been around since 1929, it was originally founded as a group promoting assimilation of Mexican-Americans. That goal radically changed in the mid-1960s. It was LULAC's Texas civil rights chairman, Peter Tijerina, who helped found MALDEF and transform the agenda of LULAC. In 1967, Tijerina met Bill Pincus, head of the Ford Foundation. Pincus agreed to advance Tijerina "seed money" to create a five-state "Mexican-American" organization modeled after the NAACP-Legal Defense Fund. This new organization would pursue civil rights litigation on behalf of "Mexicans" as the NAACP-LDF was doing on behalf of blacks.

Tijerina became MALDEF's first executive director, and, in 1970, Mario Obledo, former Texas attorney general, became general counsel. After MALDEF was established by "seed money," the Ford Foundation then awarded the organization a five-year grant in excess of $2 million.

But the Ford Foundation did more than just write checks for MALDEF. It virtually took control of all important matters -- from where the headquarters should be located, to the appointment of its executive director, to the types of legal cases it should pursue.

Ironically, it was the Ford Foundation that pushed MALDEF to become more radical in its approach. Initially, MALDEF focused on issues such as education, school desegregation, voting rights and job discrimination. But the Ford Foundation demanded precedent-setting cases to go before the U.S. Supreme Court whose rulings would affect the entire country.

What is MALDEF's goal? According to Mario Obledo, former head of MALDEF, "California is going to be a Hispanic state. Anyone who does not like it should leave." In 1998, Obledo was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom by President Clinton. By the way, California voters overwhelmingly chose to make English the official language of their state.

MALDEF obtains the funding to support its activities primarily from corporations -- in particular AT&T and IBM, and philanthropic foundations. Between 1996 and 1998, MALDEF received more than $9 million from just three foundations – more than $6 million from the Ford Foundation, $1,200,000 from Carnegie Corporation and another $1,525,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation.

The direction and success of MALDEF also had the effect of changing LULAC. It, too, became radicalized about the same time MALDEF came on the scene. And, again, it was mostly Ford Foundation money that sponsored the radicalism. From 1990 through 1995, for instance, the Ford Foundation gave grants to LULAC totaling $1.36 million.

LULAC receives considerable funding from major corporations like Bristol-Meyers Squibb, Chemical Bank, Chevron, Chrysler, General Motors, Ford Motor, General Electric, Lockheed, Rockwell, Southwestern Bell, Quaker Oats, the Verizon Foundation, the AT&T Foundation and George Soros' Open Society Institute

Meanwhile, La Raza was also established in 1968 with support from the Ford Foundation. According to its website, "the organization receives two-thirds of its funding from corporations and foundations, and the rest from the government." For the period 1992-1996, the total amount of "gifts, grants and contributions" to La Raza was more than $38 million.

This does not include revenues from "government fees and contracts." Over three years, 1996-1998, La Raza received more than $5 million dollars from just three foundations – almost $4 million dollars, from the Ford Foundation, $850,000 from the Carnegie Corporation and another $850,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation.

Founded in 1969, MEChA is the youngest of the four "Hispanic" organizations. It is also the most radical and racist.

The first chapter of MEChA, called "El Plan de AZTLAN," was established at the University of California at Santa Barbara in 1969. Other chapters eventually were formed at other colleges and even at high schools. According to Miguel Carillo, a Chula Vista High School teacher, there are MEChA chapters at over 90 percent of the high schools in San Diego and Los Angeles.

According to Jacqueline Carrasco of UCLA, "Most chapters get their budget from the (tax-funded) schools and sometimes from the associated students. Funds range from $100 to $8000 for larger schools such as Cal State Northrop."

The goal of MEChA is an independent "Aztlan," the collective name this organization gives to the seven states of the U.S. Southwest --Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas, and Utah. According Miguel Perez of MEChA, at Cal State Northridge "When asked his preference of government, he replied, 'Communism would be closest. Non-Chicanos would have to be expelled ... opposition groups would be quashed because you have to keep the power.'"

State Income Tax Revenues ahead of Predictions

Sharply improving the state's financial condition, April income tax collections were $1.5 billion higher than expected with two days left to open returns. Collections for the month stood at $9.7 billion on Wednesday (4/26), a day in which $1.65 billion flowed into state coffers. Veteran budget officials say that one-day total could be the highest in state history. Because it is the largest revenue collection month for the state, April revenues can make or break a budget. So big is this month's spike that it exceeds not only Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger's revenue forecast, but also tops a rosier estimate made by the independent legislative analyst Elizabeth Hill.

The higher-than-expected revenue recasts the budget debate that will begin next month, when the governor presents his May revision, a retooled proposal reflecting revenue and spending changes since his initial $125 billion budget in January. Legislative Democrats seek increased spending for public schools and will call for using some of the new money to pay for that and restoring a cost-of-living increase for recipients of aid to the aged, blind and disabled that Schwarzenegger cut. Republican lawmakers are calling on the governor to use some of the additional revenue to pay down the state's debt -- in particular, the continuing nearly $5 billion gap between spending obligations and revenue.

As of late Tuesday, there were 2.3 million tax returns left to be counted by the Franchise Tax Board.

A Letter to Our Leaders

Submitted by: Sherry Crail

Dear President Bush and members of both parties:

I'm about to plan a move with my family and extended family, and I would like to ask you to assist me. I'm going to walk across the border from the U.S. into Mexico, and I need to make a few arrangements. I know you can help with this. I plan to skip all the legal stuff like visas, passports, immigration quotas and laws. I'm sure they handle those things the same way you all do here. So, if someone would mind telling President Vicente Fox, and the elite members of the ruling PRI party that I'm on my way over? Please let them know that I will be expecting the following:

1. Free medical care for my entire family. (not at some roach infested clinic, I expect the finest hospital in all of Mexico)
2. English-speaking government bureaucrats for all services I might need, whether I use them or not.
3. All government forms need to be printed in English.
4. I want my kids to be taught by English-speaking teachers.
5. Schools need to include classes on American culture and history.
6. I want my kids to see the American flag flying on the top of the flagpole at their school with the Mexican flag flying lower down.
7. Please plan to feed my kids at school for both breakfast and lunch.
8. I will need a local Mexican driver's license so I can get easy access to government services.

Sovereignty: H.R. 2672 "North America Cooperative Security Act" (Harris R-FL). This is a move to merge the U.S., Canada, and Mexico, an attack on our sovereignty. Among its provisions will be FAST (Fast and Secure Trade) which will enhance the flow of goods (read illegal aliens and drugs) with Canada and Mexico. Taxpayers will be obliged to send billions to Mexico for its development. (www.spp.gov)

Congress needs to be reminded that they took an Oath of Office to support and defend the Constitution of United States of America against all enemies both foreign and domestic. When they vote for legislation exceeding those powers, they are violating the Constitution and their oath. Congressmen were not elected by big business, foreign corporations or governments, nor legal or illegal aliens, but their constituents (legal citizens), Article I, Section 8. The President's job description states under Art II, Sec. 3, that he "take care that our laws are faithfully executed". The President has failed to do this, so we are technically living in a state of anarchy.

9. I do not plan to have any car insurance and I won't make any effort to learn local traffic laws.

10. In case one of the Mexican police officers does not get the memo from Pres. Fox to leave me alone, please be sure that all police officers speak English.

11. I plan to fly the U.S. flag from my house top, put flag decals on my car, and have a gigantic celebration on July 4th. I do not want any complaints or negative comments from the locals.

12. I would also like to have a nice job without paying any taxes, and don't enforce any labor laws or tax laws.

13. Please tell all the people in the country to be extremely nice and never say a critical word about me, or about the strain I might place on the economy.

14. I have a very loud stereo system that I want to be able to listen to Country music around my house and property at all hours of the day and night please inform the neighbors that if they do not like my music to please close their windows or wear ear plugs.

I know this is an easy request because you already do all these things for all the people who come to the U.S. from Mexico. I am sure that Pres. Fox and the PRI won't mind returning the favor if you ask them.

However, if they give you any trouble, just invite them to go quail hunting.
